

NEWSPAPER READING: A POWERFUL HABIT

Every diligent student around the world is encouraged by their parents and teachers to read the newspaper daily, to reap wide-ranging benefits. In fact, since its origin in the 17th century the newspaper has continued to play an intrinsic part to jumpstart our day. Let us enumerate why reading it has always been regarded to be so imperative and useful for the student-community.

Rich and authentic source of information

The newspaper has accurate, detailed coverage on everything, ranging from current affairs, politics, science and technology, sports, education, health, medicine, industry and the markets. Not only does it allow the young minds to learn about and be abreast of the key developments across the world, it is a tried-and-tested method to increase the general knowledge of the students.

Develops the habit of reading

Newspapers allow students to inculcate the habit of reading on a daily basis. Of course, the multifarious benefits of reading voraciously are well-known to us all. Not only does it provide all-important knowledge, it also works out to be an excellent hobby, boosts brain connectivity, improves reasoning capabilities, enhances interpersonal skills, reduces stress and aids in sleep.

Bolsters reading and writing skills

In addition to increasing knowledge, reading the newspaper daily enhances the vocabulary of the students. They also become proficient with the language and reporting style of the articles. The articles on the front page and the editorial page are especially recommended for their rich content, newsworthiness and style.

Over time, this manifests itself in better reading, writing and oratory skill-sets. The overall communication skills are also bettered and the students find themselves equipped with utmost confidence to tackle their exams as well as for life in general.

Access to important information

The newspaper is a prime treasure trove for dissemination of important data, timetables, advertisements, courses and career options for various categories of students. Following it diligently helps these youngsters to track relevant information about various examinations, competitions, scholarships and the like.